See what your customer gets

At checkout the customer picks a rail and lands on a branded pay page with your handle, QR, the exact amount, and a pre-filled Order:#### memo. They pay, tick the box, and the order becomes Pending Confirmation with stock held. On the free plan you confirm each payment from your orders once it arrives.

Confirm orders automatically

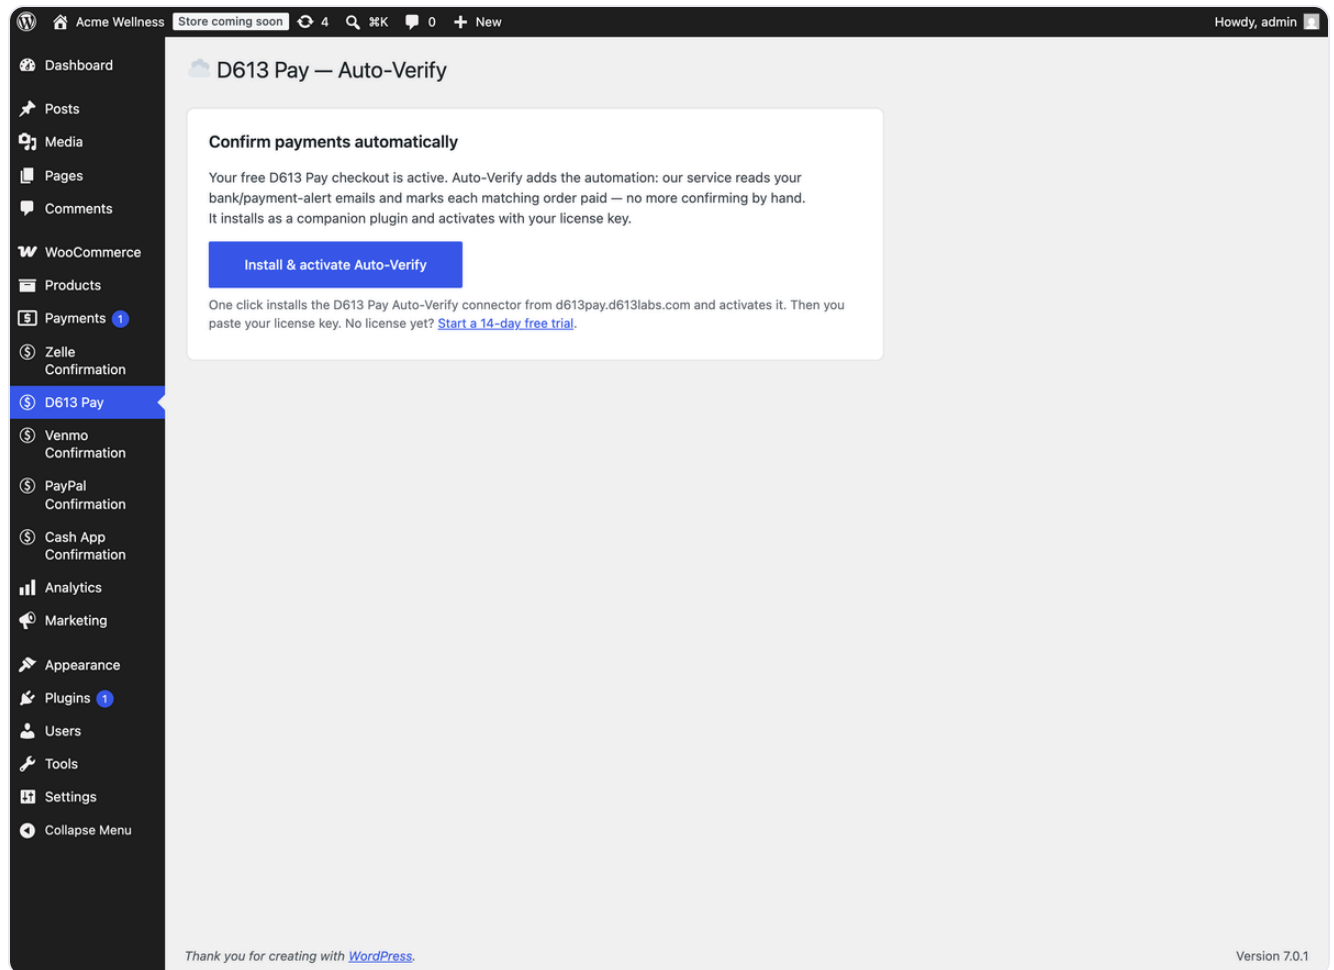

Instead of confirming payments by hand, D613 Pay reads your bank/payment-alert emails and marks each order paid for you.

5 Start your trial & get your license key

Start a 14-day free trial on the pricing page. Your license key appears on the welcome screen right after checkout and is emailed to you — you can also get it any time from My account at d613pay.d613labs.com/portal.

6 Add Auto-Verify (one click)

In WordPress admin open the D613 Pay menu and click Install & activate Auto-Verify — it downloads and turns on the Auto-Verify companion for you. Then open D613 Auto-Verify and paste your license key. (You can also download the connector from My account and upload it by hand.)

7 Connect your alerts mailbox

Connect the right inbox. It must be the email account where your payment notifications actually arrive — the address registered with your bank (for Zelle) or with Venmo / PayPal / Cash App. Reading those “you received money” notices is how D613 Pay confirms orders; a different inbox has nothing to read. (Or auto-forward just the alerts to a dedicated inbox and connect that.)

Enter the IMAP details (for Gmail, use an App Password), or click “Auto-detect my banks from this mailbox” — D613 Pay finds your payment alerts and builds a matching parser automatically.

You need a real payment alert in the inbox first. The parser learns from emails you’ve received. If you have none, send yourself a small test payment on each rail with a memo like Order:TEST-1000 so a genuine alert email arrives to learn from (it won’t confirm a real order). The setup wizard walks you through this.

- Any mailbox: Gmail, Microsoft 365, Outlook.com, Yahoo, Zoho, iCloud, Fastmail, or your own server.
- Any bank: major banks + Zelle/Venmo built in; anything else is AI-built and verified against your own emails.
- Credentials are encrypted and never shown again.

8 You’re done

New payments now confirm their own orders automatically — matched by memo and exact amount, with anything unusual held in a review queue. To move to a new store or server, use Disconnect in the connector or release the seat from My account, then pair the new site.
